Township board members appoint new trustee

During a contentious session last week, members of the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees named Jennifer Buckley to fill the vacant term on the board.

The term has been vacant since May 10 when former Trustee Bob Doroshewitz was named as the new township treasurer, replacing Mark Clinton, who resigned his position due to health concerns. Since that time, board members have accepted letters of interest from potential candidates and met to discuss the appointment to Doroshewitz' incomplete term which will expire in 2024. Three candidates, Buckley, Gail Grieger and Dan Callahan, all Republicans, each were favored by separate members of the board who previously failed to come to a majority vote on a candidate for the appointment.

Some contentious and divisive rhetoric accompanied the hour-long discussion

During a special meeting called by Supervisor Kurt Heise June 21, board members were reminded that the 45-day state-imposed deadline for the appointment was set to expire June 24 and that if they did not come to a consensus, the state could require an election for the seat. In that situation, members of each state district political committee would nominate a candidate, one Republican and one Democrat, to vie for the term during a general election.

The impending deadline did not immediately move the current trustees' votes, however, with two board members solidly supporting each of the three candidates as they had during a previous meeting.

Some contentious and divisive rhetoric accompanied the hour-long discussion with Heise telling the trustees that the meeting would continue until they came to an agreement on a candidate.

Board members addressed conflict of interest concerns regarding Trustee Chuck Curmi's involvement with the Wayne 11th Republican D-district Committee, claiming that he could be influential in naming a party candidate should the issue be part of an election. Township Clerk Jerry Vorva was adamant that Curmi's participation in the district committee was a conflict, a claim that Curmi vehemently denied.

Repeated votes continued to see no clear majority for the appointment with Curmi continuing to support Callahan. Following extensive and sometimes heated discussion, the trustees eventually voted 4-2 to appoint Buckley to the term. Trustees John Stewart and Doroshewitz continued their support for Geiger casting the two negative votes.

Buckley was immediately sworn into office and took a seat at the board table.

Independence Day Annual patriotic parade set to march through downtown Northville

The parade may not start until 10 a.m. July 4, but in Northville, the celebration begins much earlier in the morning as crowds line the streets waiting for the bands, floats and community groups to march past celebrating the national holiday.

The parade, organized by the Northville Chamber of Commerce, will include many of the marchers and floats residents have come to expect including Lady Liberty, the fire trucks and public safety equipment along with many public officials in special vehicles. The tooth fairy will be there, too, along with several other traditional marchers and floats.

Chamber Executive Director Doug Wallace who began his new job in February said he was a bit surprised at the popularity and tradition of the event.

"People literally start marking their spots and setting up picnics the night before," he said. Participation this year is increasing and Wallace said he is sure the event will be as entertaining as it has been in the past. The chamber only assumed responsibility for the parade a few years ago after the Northville Community Foundation was no longer able to continue to manage the event. Wallace admitted the parade and all the exhibits and floats was time consuming, but said he was confident the event would be a success.

More than 40 marchers had confirmed their appearance in the event earlier this month and Wallace said he expected many others to join in the celebration. His goal, he said, was to make the parade longer than last year when it was limited by the pandemic and more enjoyable for the public.

"I can't wait to see it for myself and be a part of it," Wallace said.

Immediately following the parade one of the historic treasures in the community will celebrate the 246th birthday of the country with special events from 11 until 3 p.m.

Foundry project is awarded Brownfield status

Developers of the former Foundry Flask building were granted brownfield status at a recent meeting of the Brownfield Redevelopment Authority in Northville.

The committee recommendation regarding the property at 456 Cady St. will now go before members of the city council to determine whether the public benefits of a greenway along the Middle Rouge River warrants interest for the developer and use of Tax Increment Financing funds to remediate the property.

The property is located south of Cady, east of Griswold and west of S. Main, with portions in the Northville Historic District. It formerly housed the American Bell & Foundry Co., Stinson Aircraft, and Stimpson Scale and Manufacturing prior to becoming Foundry Flask. The property was sold by Douglas Brinkman, president of the former Foundry Flask & Equipment Co., to Utah Development, LLC. The representative is Jim Long, a longtime city resident and owner of Long Companies.

The brownfield designation will be used to fund environmental cleanup and other eligible activities. The authority recently established a process for reimbursement and compliance for developers who are granted a tax abatement in exchange for property remediation. Generally, the property contains toxic substances or is distressed (environmentally or functionally) and its revitalization would add value to the city in terms of new use and an expanded tax base.

Authority directors including Chair Patrick McGow, Michelle Aniol, John Carter, David Hay, Ryan McKindles, Barbara

Moroski-Browne, and Don Webb agreed on the recommendation requested by Long. City Treasurer Sandi Wiktoroski serves as the authority treasurer and Samantha Seimer and Brian Westhoff, both of AKT Peerless, act as consultants to the authority.

The authority is authorized to allow the use of Tax Increment Financing revenues to pay for or reimburse public or private costs of eligible activities as defined in Act 381, the state of Michigan Brownfield Financing Act. These include such items as Baseline Environmental Assessment (BEA) activities, due care activities (which limit exacerbation of, or exposure to, contamination on a site), demolition (above and below ground), lead and asbestos assessment and abatement, certain administrative and consultant costs, and environmental insurance.

A Local Brownfield Revolving Fund (LBRF) allows the fund to capture Tax Increment Revenue (TIR) for a period not-to-exceed five years after the original reimbursement period is complete.

INKSTER - ROMULUS

First responders score big in charity game

The scoreboard may have indicated their defeat, but the Romulus Police and Fire department players count the latest fundraising effort as a big win.

The public safety personnel, along with a few players from the Romulus High School girls' basketball team, generated $1,200 from a recent charity basketball game to help fund the annual holiday Shop With A Cop program. In addition to the game, the event included a raffle to become one of several city officials for a day, a chance to win a Nintendo Switch and several donated gift baskets.

Opponents of the police and fire teams were players from Royalty Empowerment, a program described on the group website as an effort to encourage youth to excel from poverty and help motivate others to overcome obstacles in their environment. The mission of the organization is to bridge the gap between law enforcement in urban and underserved communities, officials said.

Explaining the 44-48 score, Romulus police posted an explanation of the loss on the department Facebook page.

“The first responders gave a valiant effort but lost 44-48 to a worthy opponent, (editor's note - the sun was in our eyes, we were tired, the officials favored Royalty Empowerment, and we wanted to make sure they would come back next year). “Despite all of that, it was an awesome opportunity for us to (get beat) meet some great young people, laugh, and play some intense basketball. We look forward to playing them again in the future.”

More than 25 police and fire department officers volunteered to participate in the charity game along with family members who volunteered to help in the effort as “ringers” and members of the high school girls' team. Officers said they are hoping for a re-match next year.

City arts commission seeking student art entries

Members of the Romulus Arts Council are looking for art for the annual Romulus Pumpkin Festival digital guide. Each year, the first-place student art entry is chosen for the cover of the guide and the second and third place winners and two honorable mentions included in the publication. The first-place winners also receives $200, the second-place winner is awarded $150 and the third place winner will receive $100. The two honorable mention entries each receive $50, officials said.

All students who are Romulus residents are eligible to enter including those from pre-school through grade 12 for the 24th anniversary pumpkin festival guide.

The art must have a fall/pumpkin theme, but no

Halloween themed work will be accepted. No wording should be on the artwork which should be at least 8 ½ by 11 and no larger than 11 by 17 inches. Art must be portrait oriented and bright colors in acrylic, watercolor, tempera or pastels is encouraged organizers said. Crayons and colored pencils do not have the vibrancy of the other mediums, they cautioned, so entries should not use those. The artist's name, age, school and contact information should be on the reverse side of the entry.

All interested participants should submit their artwork to the Economic Development Department, located in Romulus City Hall, 11111 Wayne Road in Romulus before Aug. 19. Art entries become the property of the Romulus Arts Council.

Winners will be announced and awards presented at the festival where the art will be framed and displayed at the hospitality tent.

The Romulus Arts Council has awarded more than $10,000 to Romulus resident students from pre-school to high school, organizers said.

For more information, call Maria Lambert (734) 955-4533.

Westland planning new city community center

Members of the Westland City Council have allocated $8 million to fund a new city community center:

Council members voted unanimously to use funding from the second American Rescue Plan Act allocation of $12,966,016 Westland received for the development of a new community center at the former Marshall school site in the city.

City officials have been working with representatives from the YMCA of Metropolitan Detroit and the Wayne Metro Community Action Agency on plans to renovate the vacant 143,000 square foot building. The school, located at 35100 Bayview, sits on 19.4 acres and has been vacant since 2019. The total estimated cost for the community center, as designed, is $20.5 million.

Mayor William R. Wild said the administration has contacted various sources seeking funding for the project. "City council's official commitment of funding for the project will allow us to leverage those funds to work to secure the additional funding needed from Wayne County and the State of Michigan," Wild said.

"The council has been working diligently with the administration to strategically allocate the funding and plans for this unique project," said Westland City Council President James Hart. "All of the councilmembers have received input and great excitement for the Marshall project from the residents, and that is reflected in this proposal to move forward on this transformational opportunity for our community."

During a council study session earlier this month to discuss the project, Wayne County Business Development Manager Dave Schreiber explained the county process and requirements for requesting county American Recovery Plan Act funds, which include a commitment of funds from the local municipality. The Michigan Economic Development Corporation (MEDC) has allocated $500,000 toward the project and requests have been made for an additional allocation of $3.5 million from Congressional representatives Gary Peters and Rashida Tlaib.

The proposed project scope includes exterior upgrades, including a new façade, (parking/sidewalks/landscape), building envelope (roofing/doors/windows), building retrofits for programs, entry revisions, locker rooms, corridors, hallways, fire suppression, interior finishes (flooring/ceilings), mechanical, electrical, plumbing, technology and security upgrades.

"Through market studies and public engagement sessions, our residents have indicated a strong desire for increased recreational opportunities as well as a desire to revision the former Marshall school," Wild said. "This allocation will continue to explore partnerships and conduct our necessary due diligence to determine the building's potential."

Wild said the goal was to execute a purchase agreement with the Wayne Westland Community Schools by the end of this year.

Murder suspect is arrested

The man accused in the Jan. 5 murder of two women in Wayne has been arrested in Arkansas, according to police.

Police had been searching for Christopher Lewis Greer since the fatal shooting of 30-year-old Dominique Parchman and her sister, 18-year-old Shyanna Hall at the Lara Apartments on Niagara Street in January. Police responding to the scene found Parchman dead of her wounds while Hall was transported to a nearby hospital where she later died. She identified Greer as her assailant before her death.

Police said that Greer, 32, had dated Parchman for several years. Neighbors told police that they had previously heard several loud arguments from the apartment. Police said that Parchman immediately fled the scene of the shootings in Parchman's Dodge Charger which police later found abandoned in Ypsilanti Township.

Crime Stoppers offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to Parchman's arrest. Police did not offer any further details regarding the suspect's apprehension.

City garage sale is set

Westland will host a citywide garage sale the weekend of July 9 and 10.

The city will promote individual garage sales during the weekend on the city website at no cost. A An interactive map with locations of all garage sales in the city during the weekend will be posted on the website and accessible to the public. Potential customers can also search for particular items of interest, a city spokesman said. To register a sale location, visit www.cityofwestland.com or to search for garage sale locations.

"The garage sale interactive map is now live and is a great tool to streamline your shopping day and to promote your sale," commented Mayor William R. Wild.

Residents who do not own a computer can still advertise a sale on the city website. Call Wild's office at (734)467-3200 and the staff will help register the garage sale location. No garage sale permit is needed to participate in this special city wide effort and registration is not required.

Happy 101 Resident celebrates special birthday

Bill Brown of Plymouth turned 101 years old June 13 and celebrated his very special day with a party at Independence Village of Plymouth.

Brown was born in Syracuse, NY, and served in the Army from 1944 to 1946 in a special service engineer group during World War II. Brown is a multi-rating pilot, which qualifies him to fly as pilot-in-command on any aircraft with more than one engine. Having owned his own plane for 34 years, Brown continues to pilot and has traveled extensively in the U.S. and surrounding territories. His favorite place to fly is Maine, he said. Along with flying, Brown enjoys building model airplanes in his apartment at Independence Village.

Brown said his favorite memory is his wedding to his wife, Mildred, to whom he was married for 75 years. Together, they had three daughters, one son, and numerous grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Brown's advice to younger generations is to find a mentor who has done various things in life and learn from them. He cautioned, however, that along with having "love in your heart, you will need to have some ambition."

Brown said he is most excited again this year about continuing his current lifestyle. "Talk to people, enjoy people, stay active, and have fun," he advised.

Family tradition

Plymouth Noon Rotary Club members welcomed Rotary Super District 6400 President Elect Traci Sincock, far left, to the meeting last week to preside at the induction of new club President Penny Joy. Sincock's husband, Plymouth City Manager Paul Sincock, is a former district governor of the club and Joy's husband, Tim, along with her son, Eric, each served as president of the noon club. The family tradition of service continued as Joy presented his wife with the gavel signifying her new office. During the meeting, Joy thanked past president Dale Yagiela for his year of service to the group, where members are already planning the annual Rotary Chicken BarBeQue set to take place during the Plymouth Fall Festival this year.

Cruise raffle tickets on sale

Tickets for the Michigan Philharmonic raffle of a cruise of the Pacific Northwest for two are now available.

The trip raffle is the largest fundraiser for the Michigan Philharmonic, officials said, and will be a wine cruise along the Columbia and Snake rivers from Oct. 30 through Nov. 7. The prize includes the nine-day cruise aboard the American Empress and roundtrip airfare for two.

Travelers will experience the serenity of the wilderness in the Pacific Northwest with scenery and waterways leading to wine country, tasting vintages and experiencing the feel of a paddleboat-style cruise ship, officials said.

Tickets for the raffle are $50 each and only 400 will be sold. Tickets can be purchased through the Michigan Philharmonic offices located in Plymouth or online at michiganphil.org. The drawing for the winner will take place Saturday, Aug. 13, during the upcoming Philharmonic concert at the Eleanor and Edsel Ford Estate.

The winner will be contacted that day and does not need to be present to win.
